BLISS BOOK TELLS LIST LAYS BARE CONTRIBUTORS TO ROOSEVELT 1904 FUND

Secret Copy Made by Elmer Dover and Hidden Years in Vault Is Given Senators.

TOTAL IS $2,280,018.

Initials Indicate Archbold Gift, While Other Trust Magnates Are Named.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Like a voice from the tomb was a list of 1904 campaign contributions to the Republicans given to the Clapp committee today. List of years was taken from the list produced from a Chicago storage vault by Elmer Dover, assistant Republican Secretary. It barred the campaign secrets Treasurer Cornelius N. Bliss sought to destroy on his death. It was a duplicate of Bliss' accounts, taken by Dover and kept for eight years.

Dover said he had made his list shortly after the close of the 1904 campaign from a book which Mr. Bliss let him see. Dover said his list undoubtedly contained errors made in copying, and that he had never compared it with the original. The largest contributions down on the list were:

JURY FINDS VERDICT OF "NOT GUILTY" FOR MACFARLAND

Defendant, Who Had Been Convicted in First Trial, Receives News Calmly.

DIDN'T NEED "BUNNY."

Girl for Whom State Declared Murder Was Committed Not Called to Stand.

A verdict of "not guilty" was found by the jury in the second trial of Allison M. MacFarland on the charge of wife murder this afternoon. When the verdict was announced to Justice Gummere in the county court house, Newark, N. J., MacFarland, who had displayed remarkable coolness throughout the trial, maintained his composure, saying that he had fully expected acquittal.

This was MacFarland's second trial. On the first he put in no defense and the jury found him guilty. An appeal to the higher court, however, resulted in a reversal, the court holding that the so-called "Bunny" letters, written by MacFarland's Philadelphia sweetheart, and which the prosecution alleged showed the motive for the killing, had been improperly introduced. At the present trial MacFarland took the stand in his own defense. The girl in the case, Florence Bromley, came to Newark to testify in MacFarland's behalf, but the accused man's attorney, desiring to save her the humiliation of a cross-examination, decided to stand on his story alone. It was alleged that MacFarland placed cyanide in a bottle containing bromide and that his wife swallowed the fatal dose, innocently believing she was taking headache medicine. After Justice Gummere had charged the jury, Lawyer McDermitt, entered a general exception to the Judge's address. Referring to the contention of the defense that Mrs. MacFarland deliberately committed suicide because she had discovered letters to her husband from Florence Bromley, which showed that he was unfaithful and of degenerate morals, the Court said in charging the jury that as Mrs. MacFarland had already talked with her husband about his intimacy with Florence Bromley and had discussed a divorce with him, those letters would take it and die, he was guilty of murder.

"Poisoners," said the Court, "do not go around with brass bands; they usually work in secret."

CONVICT GIRL WHO TRIED TO HELP PRISONERS ESCAPE.

A jury before Judge Dike in the County Court, Brooklyn, to-day, quickly convicted Estelle Moscovitz, of No. 25 East Ninth street, Manhattan, of attempting to help three prisoners escape by burglary to get out of Raymond Street Jail. Warden Kane found on Sept. 19 that the bars in the door of the cell occupied by Estelle Moscovitz and Harry Miller had been sawed through. He ordered that all who had visited the two should be searched. Estelle Moscovitz, called the next day. When she was searched by the matron fine saws were found in her stockings. As it is a felony to attempt to aid in the escape of a person accused of a felony the girl may be sentenced to Auburn prison for seven years.

ROOSEVELT SITS UP AND DECLARES HE FEELS BULLY

Doctors Decide Ex-President Can Start for Oyster Bay on Tuesday.

WIFE IS THE "BOSS."

Patient Practically Resumes Charge of His Campaign From Sick Room.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Former President Roosevelt will leave Chicago for Oyster Bay on Monday or Tuesday of next week. He will travel on one of the slower trains over the Pennsylvania Railroad, so that he may enter New York at the station from which the trains to Oyster Bay depart. This plan was decided upon to-day with only the qualification that it depended upon Col. Roosevelt's continued and uninterrupted improvement, which his physicians now confidently expect.

"Keep the fight going full blast, Johnson; don't let our boys slack up in the work because I can't be with them for a few days. Tell the people you speak to I wish I could be out there working with you myself and that I certainly will be as soon as my doctors will let me."

This was Col. Roosevelt's parting injunction and encouragement to Gov. Hiram Johnson, the Progressive candidate for Vice-President, when the latter left the Presidential candidate at Mercy Hospital to-day.

ROOSEVELT ALLOWED TO SIT IN BED AN HOUR.

The following bulletin was issued by Col. Roosevelt's surgeons at 9:30 A. M. (10:30 o'clock New York time): "Pulse, 70; temperature, 98.4; respiration, 18. Pain in chest diminished. Breathing freer. General condition so good that he will be allowed to sit up for an hour to-day. His convalescence is progressing favorably, and unless some latent infection manifests itself his progress should be rapid."

The bulletin was taken by Dr. John S. Murray, Dr. Arthur D. Boyan, Dr. Alexander Lambert and Dr. Scoury L. Terrell.

The physicians have practically agreed that barring complications, their patient may leave the hospital Tuesday. He will not be allowed to make any political speeches or take any active part in the campaign, however, for ten or twelve days afterward. This decision was made to-day at a conference of the doctors and Mrs. Roosevelt. The plan is to remove the Colonel Tuesday afternoon and take him directly to Oyster Bay, where he will be able to obtain the rest needed for his complete recovery.

"I'm getting anxious to get back to Armageddon boys," was Col. Roosevelt's jesting greeting to his physicians when they appeared. The remark epitomized the whole situation at Mercy Hospital.

After waking Roosevelt was given a sponge bath and served with the same kind of breakfast he has had each morning since he entered the hospital. It was not the Colonel's wish, however, that he be confined to the usual toast, eggs, etc.

"That's nothing for a strong man," the Colonel remarked to the nurse. "I want some fresh country sausage and pan-cakes. Plenty of them, too."

Mrs. Roosevelt promptly countermanded the sausage and pan-cake order. Breakfast arrived minus the delicacies. The Colonel looked at the nurse and said:

CHICAGO POLICE GUARD ROOSEVELT'S RUNNING MATE

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Twenty-five policemen escorted Gov. Hiram W. Johnson today from the Grand Central Railway station to his hotel. The large guard was ordered by Chief of Police McWeeny as a result of an attempt to assassinate Col. Roosevelt. Chief McWeeny said no chance would be taken of a similar attack on the Colonel's running mate.

Character Views of Gambling House Raider Who Is on Trial for Killing of Rosenthal

WINS DIVORCE SUIT AIDED BY 670 LBS. OF CO-RESPONDENTS

Three—Count 'Em—Three Fair Blondes Make Court Floor Sag at Trial.

Six hundred and seventy pounds of feminine correspondents—three of 'em—overflowed chairs in Justice Giege's part of the Supreme Court today when Mrs. Ida Campbell's suit for divorce against John E. Campbell was called. It was the biggest catch of affidavits hagged by a spouse in many a moon.

The first of the heavy affidavits to be called was a Miss Mahelle Reilly. She cried herself slightly from a frail little chair which groaned and creaked as it was relieved of its burden and turned toward the aisle. One hand shot up to a massive green and blue ostrich-trimmed hat, adjusted the other hand in hauling down her jacket.

She made her way laboriously to the witness chair, smiled mischievously at the clerk who swore her and got, her-plunk! into the witness chair, not forgetting to proffer Justice Giege's one of her most mellow smiles.

"Sure," she knew "Jack" Campbell. He is "one of the best ever" and paid his way all the time. Of course, if the lawyer just had to know what "Jack" was doing on the night of Jan. 8, 1911, when Mrs. Campbell complained her husband had transgressed, why, she "posed," she had to tell it. She told of Campbell entertaining a party of girls at No. 129 West Thirty-ninth street on the evening in question. The circumstances were such as to convince the Court Mr. Campbell's suit was well founded and the lawyer was directed to call one of the other witnesses to offer legal corroboration of Miss Reilly's story. It fell to the lot of Miss Katie Stradley, a chum of Miss Reilly, to move some 27 pounds avoirdupois in the direction of the witness chair. She made an observation to Miss Reilly, whom she met in the aisle, as follows: "Say, kid, you looked too cute for anything up there!"

Like her companion, Miss Stradley, an enormous, plump and youthful corespondent, smiled playfully at Clerk Jack McCue and others within the enclosure. The idea of being a divorce case witness had no embarrassments for Miss Stradley.

Miss Stradley told the Court what Miss Reilly said about "Jack's" dallying in Broadway's all-night glare was quite true. The Court was satisfied at this point and told Mrs. Campbell's lawyer he need not bother with the third corespondent.

A decree of divorce was entered in favor of Mrs. Campbell, who married Campbell in February, 1906, but saw little of her husband afterward.

The third of the bery of impressively constructed sweethearts remains unidentified. In proportions and in calibre of ambrosia, she equaled her sister witnesses. The three young women called to the court house corridor as recess and blocked the passage way from the court room to the stairway. Finally they flowed down the staircase and gradually disappeared.

HUSTLING A. D. T. BOY HIT.

Runs in Front of Machine at Broadway and Thirty-second Street.

William Silverstein, an A. D. T. messenger boy, who, his employers say, was always a hustler, tried to break across Fifth avenue at Thirty-second street through the stream of traffic at noon today. He was struck and run over by an automobile owned by John Sheehan of No. 24 West Seventieth street and driven by Mr. Sheehan's chauffeur, August Amagout.

The machine was moving slowly and Amagout stopped it as soon as possible after the lad was struck. Mr. Sheehan picked up the boy, placed him in the car and rushed him down to Twenty-third street, where a policeman was picked up and the accident was reported.

Young Silverstein was then taken to New York Hospital in the Sheehan automobile. He was found to have three fractured ribs on the left side and minor injuries. Mr. Sheehan left orders that the little patient be given the best of attention. Amagout, the chauffeur, says the boy ran directly in front of the car when the crossing was closed to all but traffic bound up and down Fifth avenue. Silverstein's home is at No. 27 East Tenth street.

FINDS HIS CHILD DEAD UNDER A BED AFTER SAVING OTHERS AT FIRE

Father Rescues Two of His Daughters, Believing Third Had Rushed From House.

Four hours after a fire that destroyed the upper part of their home had been put out, Joseph Osele, of Clifton, N. J., found the body of his eight-year-old daughter, Angelina, this morning, under a bed in a room which had not been touched by the flames.

Osele, with his wife and three daughters, lived at No. 415 Parker avenue, Clifton, a two-and-a-half story frame dwelling. Late last night, after the family had retired, neighbors saw flames bursting through the roof, turned in an alarm and aroused the Oseles.

Mrs. Osele and her husband rushed up to the attic to the children's rooms and carried out Elizabeth, aged four, and Olga, aged six. Little Olga thought Angelina had gone down the stairs a minute before. She told her father "Angelina ran down to wake up papa and mamma." With the arrival of the flames and the gathering of a crowd of several hundred persons Osele, in the excitement, supposed that neighbors were caring for Angelina.

But after a quick look through the crowd he began to have doubts and made his way back into the house and up to the attic, where the flames were raging. He searched rapidly through the two rooms on that floor and looked into an unfurnished storeroom and finally decided that the girl must have saved herself.

Osele was burned severely on his left arm when he came down. The parents began a quiet search among the neighbors, but their search soon became frantic when family after family told them they had no idea where the girl was. By 2 o'clock this morning the distracted father had interviewed all the neighbors and he returned to the house. One room in the attic was even then full of smoke. Osele went through it carefully and was about to leave when he saw the child's feet under the bed. The little girl had been suffocated.

WHITMAN ON STAND ADMITS MAKING DEAL WITH THREE PLOTTERS

District-Attorney Says He Entered Into an Agreement With Webber, Vallon and Schepps Promising Practical Immunity.

"SULLIVAN" OR JACK RICH PROVES A LIVELY WITNESS

Tells Several Details That Are Directly at Variance With the Testimony Given by Rose.

District-Attorney Whitman was called this afternoon as a witness for the defense in the trial of Lieut. Charles Becker for the murder of Herman Rosenthal when it was resumed after recess before Justice Goff in Extraordinary Term of the Supreme Court. John L. McIntyre, Becker's chief counsel, requested his opponent in the case to take the stand and answer questions about his (Whitman's) presence in the West Forty-seventh street station on the morning of July 16, the day the gambler-informer was shot to death.

The purpose of this almost unprecedented move in criminal trial was to question the District-Attorney concerning statements he had made while cross-examining Frederick Hawley, a newspaper reporter, and one of the defence's important witnesses. Whitman had sworn at this witness' statement that he had been with Becker at a time the State alleges the defendant was conferring with the murder conspirator.

Mr. Whitman did not help the defence prove that Hawley had been with Becker.

Admissions were drawn from the Prosecutor that he had made stipulations in writing with Rose, Webber, Vallon and Schepps. The defense called for these stipulations, and Justice Goff ordered them produced.

Jack Sullivan, friend of Becker, and indicted with him for the murder, was on the witness stand this afternoon. He gave the lie to Jack Rose, contradicting some of the most important features of Rose's testimony. He especially denied that part of Rose's story concerning the sending of money to the gunmen, declaring he did not see Becker during the morning following the murder. Rose had said Sullivan was present when the money was paid over.

Sullivan declared flatly that Rose had told him he would "frame Becker, Waldo, the Mayor, or anybody else to get out of here"—the "you're kidding me," said Becker.

Hawley, a reporter for the Sun, swore that he called Becker on the telephone and told him of the murder of Rosenthal at 2:17 o'clock. Becker said he was sorry Rosenthal had been killed as he had the "goods" on the gambler and was just getting ready to show him up. Becker at first said to the reporter "you are kidding me."

Hawley said he went to the Times square station and met Becker there and accompanied him to the station house. He was with Becker continuously, he said, from 3 o'clock until 8 o'clock with exceptions of intervals of from five minutes to twenty minutes.

Former District-Attorney William Travers Jerome was the first witness called to the stand to-day after Lawyer John W. Hart had outlined the defense's plans.

Mr. Jerome was called to testify as to a telephone conversation he had heard between Becker and Jack Rose that would prove Rose to be a perjurer.

Judge Goff overruled every question along this line and the former District-Attorney stepped down without giving an answer. Judge Goff even refused to allow counsel to make an argument against his rulings.

Police Commissioner Waldo was then called to testify as to Becker's record in the Police Department.

Mr. Waldo was not allowed to testify if Becker had ever asked to be relieved of the duties of head of the Vice Squad.

Mr. Jerome Is Shut Off as a Becker Witness

Former District Attorney Jerome was sworn and took his seat on the stand, looking very grave and solemn. "Do you recall, Mr. Jerome," asked Mr. Hart, "the day I called on you last July?"

"Yes," responded Jerome, "I recall that it was on the Wednesday before the murder."

The witness told of having had dinner with Hart at Delmonico's and of their subsequent visit to the Bay Hotel.

Q. Did you see the defendant on that day?
